Her early career began in the mid-1990s as a vocalist for the Australian acid jazz band Crisp, before embarking on a solo journey that would eventually redefine her career trajectory.

In 2000, Sia released her debut solo album, Only See, which garnered modest attention. Her soulful voice and introspective lyrics began catching the attention of critics and fellow musicians alike.

Despite her early acclaim, Sia's commercial breakthrough did not come immediately. Her career experienced a pivotal resurgence with the release of Some People Have Real Problems (2008), which featured hit singles like "Day Too Soon." However, it was her 2014 album, 1000 Forms of Fear, that catapulted her into global stardom. The album's lead single, "Chandelier," became a cultural phenomenon, renowned for its haunting vocals and striking music video featuring a young dancer performing intense choreography in a dilapidated house. The song's success was amplified by its viral popularity on social media platforms, solidifying Sia's place in pop culture.
